President Brainard,

Middlebury, Vt.

My dear President Brainard:-

I have yours of June 14th in regard to my paper for your Conference. It seems to me the best title for my paper would be "Text-book versus Lecture" or "The Comparative Advantages of the Text-book and Lecture." The first title seems to me more concise. I forget the exact phraseology which you suggested, and you will find the paper takes a little different turn. It is a very dull performance, and I fear you will not be very much edified by it, but it is rather a plea for the value of the small college and in that respect may have some appropriateness. By sending you the paper at this time, which you will kindly preserve, I shall have furnished you the copy which you desired for your printer.

With highest esteem, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
